Belonging at EY

Empower and be empowered

Employee networks

Our employee networks give our people a place to connect, feel included and share perspectives. Each one is a community driven by respect, trust and support.

We foster better collaboration and business outcomes by engaging each member of our teams in discussions and decisions, supporting each other professionally and personally, and investing in each other's success, cultivating an environment where everyone can feel a sense of belonging.

Did you know?

At EY, we have 30+ networks and communities which are open to all, including the EY Race and Ethnicity Network, Women in Technology Network and Unity, EY's LGBT+ network.

Creating a culture of belonging and a safe space where you can be yourself is EY's priority. Our valuable EY Networks gave me the confidence to be my true authentic self.

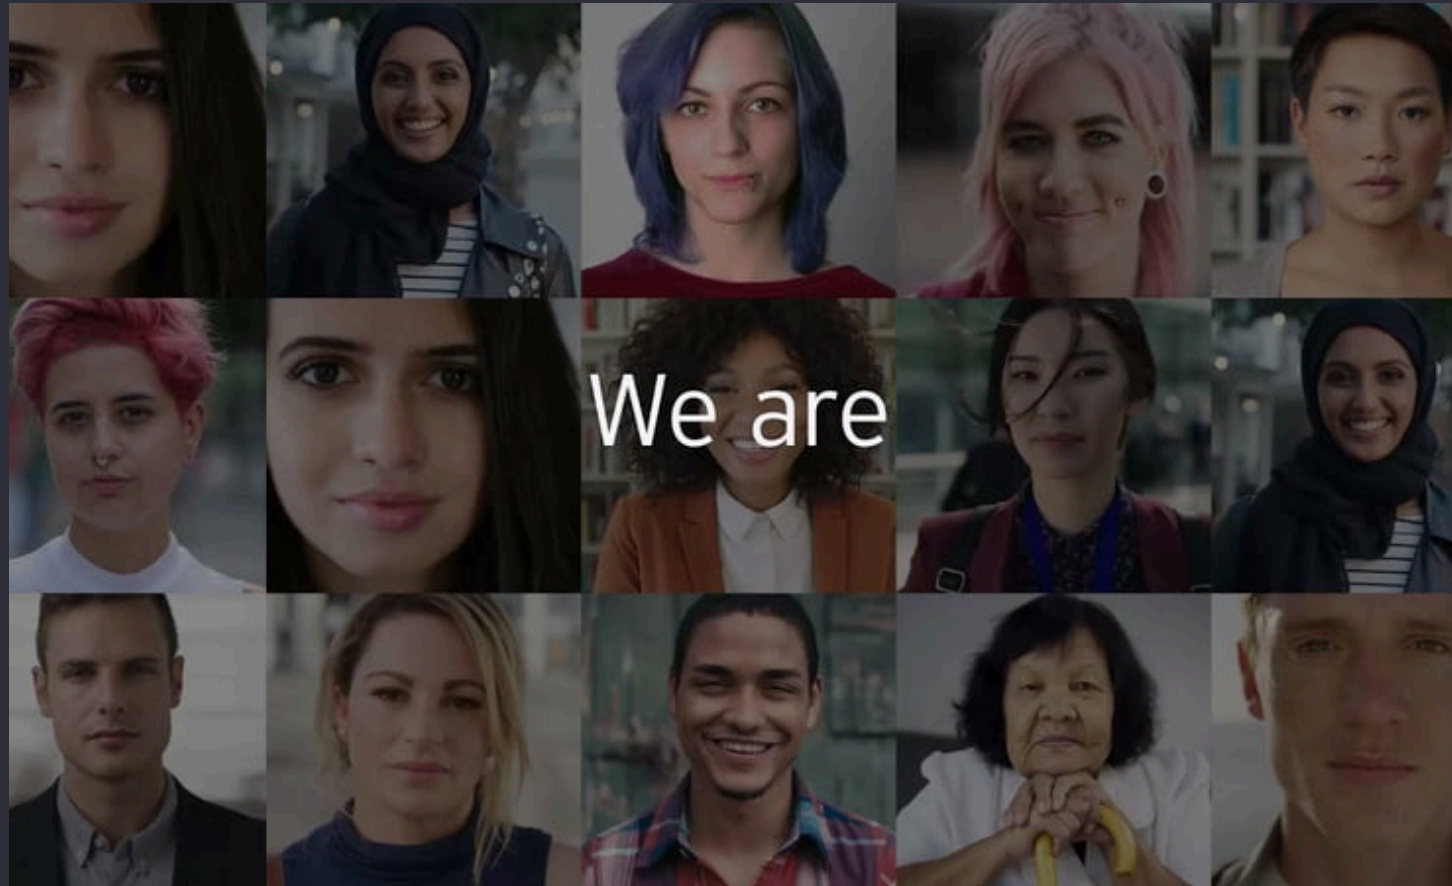

I quickly learned that at EY, our differences are widely celebrated and my unique point of view truly matters.

A culture of belonging

At EY, your voice matters. By speaking up, you help us build a culture we are all proud of. Where we can aspire to our own version of success - all while feeling a genuine sense of belonging.

For us though, belonging means much more than just fitting in. It means thriving in a place where you're embraced and celebrated just for being you. Where opportunities to grow and develop are within reach, no matter who you are, and what background you come from. Where you're heard and empowered to use your voice and help others find theirs.

Don't just fit in. Belong.

Feel part of something special

We want all EY people to experience that feeling of belonging, yet the increasing diversity of EY teams can also make it harder to feel like you belong.

By building truly inclusive teams, we can grow that sense of belonging for all team members and create a virtuous cycle: the more you feel you belong, the more you will behave inclusively.

Discover the people behind our business and get a sense for what real belonging feels like. How will your story begin?
